

Default pdf viewer in chrome

Continue

If you're anything like 99% of everybody, you have some sort of PDF viewing software installed on your PC—but did you realize that you can use Google Chrome to view PDFs from your PC? It's easy! We're showing off how to do this in Windows, but theoretically it would work for OS X or Linux as well. If you've tried it, let us know in the comments.

Enabling Google Chrome as Your Default PDF Reader Start off by right-clicking on any PDF file, and heading to the "Open with" item on the menu. If you don't see this, you can usually hold Shift and right-click, and it will be there. This will bring up the Open with dialog, which lets you choose what to open your PDF files with, but sadly Google Chrome isn't listed—but no matter, you can just click the Browse button. If you know where Google Chrome was installed, then just browse to that location—otherwise, you can right-click on the Chrome shortcut, head to Properties, and then Shortcut. You'll see the location in the Target box (best bet is to copy and paste the full path). Once you've selected chrome.exe and clicked the OK button, you're done. That's it. Easy, right? And now when you double-click on your PDF file, it'll launch straight in Chrome. Not working? Head to about:plugins in Chrome and make sure that the Chrome PDF Viewer is enabled. For the purposes of this article, we're using the dev channel release of Chrome, but it should work in earlier versions as well. Note: the original idea for this article came from Lee Matthews over at Download Squad, but our method is easier. One of the most important updates in Windows 10 is the introduction of Microsoft Edge. Not only was it introduced as Windows 10's default browser to replace Internet Explorer, but it was also programmed to be the default PDF viewer. This latter simply means that Windows 10 users will automatically use this application when they open PDF files. This is great because it eliminates the need to install a third-party PDF viewer that could potentially bog down your computer. However, those who frequently use the PDF file format may find Microsoft Edge a little bit limited in its capabilities. Therefore, if you have more dynamic software that you prefer to use instead, you will be happy to know that you can change the default PDF viewer on Windows 10 so that your PDF documents will automatically be opened in the software. How to Change Default PDF Viewer in Windows 10 There are two ways you can go about changing the default PDF viewer in Windows 10 – using File Explorer or via the Control Panel. Both are easy to do if you follow these steps: Method 1. Using File Explorer Step 1. Right Click Your PDF Right-click on a PDF file. Click on "Open with" > "Choose another app". Step 2. Change Default Viewer A pop-up window will prompt you to choose your preferred software. Tick the "Always use this app" check box and click "OK". If your preferred software does not appear in the pop-up window, click on "More apps" to expand the list. Scroll down until you see the "Look for another app in this PC" link and click on it. Find and select your preferred software to set it to the default PDF viewer in Windows 10. Method 2. Using Control Panel Step 1. Open Control Panel Open your PC's Control Panel and click on "Default Programs". Proceed with accessing the "Associate a file type or protocol with a program" settings. It will take some time for your PC to load all your file formats. Step 2. Change Default Program Find the .pdf entry. Highlight its row and click the "Change program..." button. A window will appear to prompt you into choosing the preferred default PDF viewer. Step 3. Confirm Your Settings If you are unable to see the preferred PDF viewer, you can find it by clicking on the "More apps" link. If you still cannot find it, scroll down and click the "Look for another app in this PC" link. Once you have located the software that you want, click "Open" to set it as the default PDF viewer on your PC. Feb 09, 2017 Feb 09, 2017 You need to reset your file associations so that your system uses Reader to open pdf files. It's pretty easy to do but varies from one OS to the other. You can google the information on resetting file associations and find instructions or you could let us know what OS you are using and we can let you know how to do it. 2 Likes Jump to answer Nearly every computer these days comes with a PDF viewer, a program that allows you to read, print, and sometimes edit a PDF file. In the newest versions of Windows 10, the default PDF viewer is Microsoft Edge, an internet browser. Many people use their internet browser—whether it be Edge, Chrome, or something else—as a viewer. Others might use a dedicated PDF program, like Adobe Acrobat Reader or Foxit. In any case, Windows 10 always sets one of these programs as the default, which means any PDF file you have will be opened with that program automatically. If you want to change your default PDF viewer, it'll just take a minute. Here's how to do it. Check out the products mentioned in this article: Windows 10 (From $139.99 at Best Buy) | Lenovo IdeaPad 130 (From $299.99 at Best Buy) How to change your default PDF viewer in Windows 10 1. Boot up your Windows 10 computer, and open the search bar at the bottom-left of the screen. 2. In the search bar, type "Control Panel" and launch the Control Panel application when it appears in the search results. Search for the Control Panel app in your desktop search bar. Taylor Lyles/Business Insider 3. In the Control Panel, click on "Programs," then search for the section that reads "Default programs," and click on it. This will launch a page that reads "Default apps" at the top. 4. In "Default apps," click on "Choose default apps by file type." Scroll down in "Default apps" and select "Choose default apps by file type." Taylor Lyles/Business Insider 5. Scroll down and look for the .pdf file type, located in the "Extensions" section. The file types are alphabetized. The "Default apps by file type" menu is alphabetized from A to Z, so scroll down until you reach the PDF section. Taylor Lyles/Business Insider 6. Click on the current default program associated with PDFs. A small window will open, asking you to choose a new default PDF viewer. There, you can choose from the ones already available on your computer, or browse the Microsoft Store for a new one. Choose an app or find a different one in the Microsoft Store. Taylor Lyles/Business Insider Once you select your new viewer, all PDFs on your computer will open with that program by default. Their icons might also change to match the icon of that new program.
